Could we be back to paying for daily LRT parking with the Calgary Parking Authority? Maybe not with ParkPlus, but the CPA's Park Online service might make them a 'natural fit' says Coun. Shane Keating.

CPA looks into
operating LRT
park-and-rides

Return of fees? Some see per-stall fees,
scrapped in 2011,
making a comeback

Calgary's parking authority has been in talks with Calgary Transit about taking over the operation of lots at LRT stations, an idea several city councillors welcomed Thursday — even if it means the return of park-and-ride fees.

Council voted 10-5 to scrap the controversial fees in April 2011. They were replaced with a reservation system, which sees some regular commuters pay $70 a month to guarantee themselves a stall.

The other stalls are available for free on a first-come, first-served basis.

Mayor Naheed Nenshi was one of the strongest advocates for the change, making the elimination of the $3 park-and-ride fee part of his 2010 campaign platform.

Coun. Brian Pincott remains a staunch supporter of the per-stall fee. "It seems to me like having a fee for parking — for everybody — is the fairest way to go," he said Thursday. One of the problems with the reservation system, Pincott noted, is that reserved stalls aren't always used and drivers without a reservation can't legally park in them until 10 a.m.

Calgary Parking Authority (CPA) general manager Troy McLeod said new technology developed in conjunction with Calgary Transit could make more efficient use of parking spaces in the future.

"We could operate it and have daily sales as well, so if those reserved stalls weren't fully used, we could still provide accommodation for that daily use," McLeod said.

The CPA has had "preliminary discussions" with Transit about operating park-and-ride lots using its Park Online software, McLeod added.

Coun. Shane Keating said the CPA is a "natural choice" for an operator and, as the city undertakes higher-density, transit-oriented developments near LRT stations, he expects some park-and-rides will return to a fee-for-all-users model.

"Let CPA run it," Keating said. "They can share revenues with Transit and move forward from there. I think we have to get away from the idea that the parking authority is strictly for the core."

Nomination forms

Mclver, Prentice closer to entering leadership race

The race officially began for Alberta's governing Progressive Conservatives Thursday with two candidates picking up their nomination forms.

Former federal cabinet minister Jim Prentice used social media to send a picture of himself picking up the paperwork. His caption was "Off to collect signatures."

Calgary legislature member Ric Mclver directed supporters to the party website and urged them to take out memberships.

Both candidates had to deliver a $20,000 non-refundable deposit.

They must pay another $30,000 when nominations close at the end of the month and deliver 500 signatures from party members endorsing their nomination.

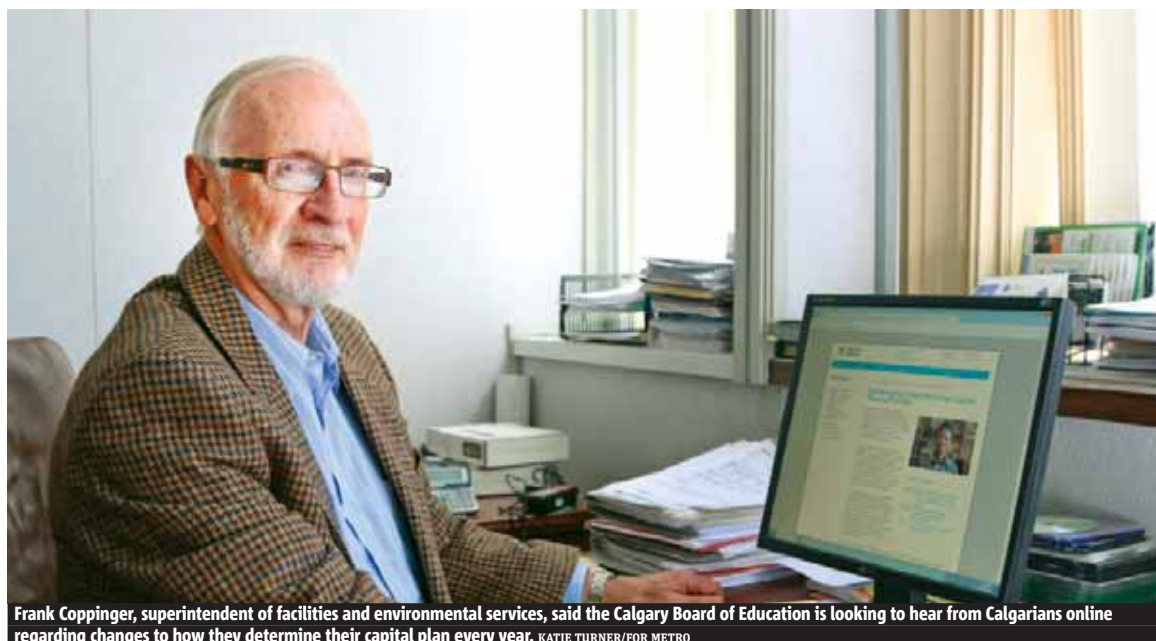

There must be 100 names each from five regions: Edmonton, Calgary, north, south and central.

All confirmed candidates are to be introduced at a forum in Edmonton on June 2. Jobs Minister Thomas Lukaszuk has said he may run as well, but has yet to confirm.

Prentice, who held portfolios in Prime Minister Stephen Harper's cabinet, is considered the front-runner. He already has the public support of 17 Tory members of the legislature.

Mclver, who stepped down as infrastructure minister to enter the race, is promising to run a populist campaign intended to eradicate spending scandals that helped bring down former premier Alison Redford.

Board wants public's input on capital plan

New schools. CBE to use focus groups, web in deciding new planning criteria

Education officials want Calgarians to weigh in on how they rank their requests for new schools from the province.

The Calgary Board of Education announced Thursday that they will be revamping the criteria they use to develop their three-year capital plan. They will be establishing focus groups and asking for online feedback to develop that new criteria.

"There's been questions raised by some communities and we feel, since it's over a decade since there's been a major revision to this criteria, that it's an opportune time to seek broad community input and look to establish a fair and equitable criteria," said Frank Coppinger, superintendent of facilities and environmental services.

The current ranking system takes into consideration things like community demographics and projected student enrolment to determine a list of new schools and school modernizations to request from the province.

Pam Halla, Chair of the parent council at Mayland Heights, said public input is needed when it comes to developing the capital plan.

"The CBE has been known in the past to veil things and surprise parents at the last moment," she said. "I'm a little bit skeptical as to whether they're going to heed the advice of parents, but I think it's a good starting point."

Larry Leach of the Association for Responsive Trusteeship in Calgary Schools (ARTICS) said this is one step in opening up a broader discussion between the public and the board.

"I think people are craving to give input on these sorts of things."

An online survey can be filled out at cbe.ab.ca until June

Modular schools

The CBE is also looking to develop a ranking criteria for modular schools, as they currently don't have one.

- Every November, the CBE submits a request for new modular schools to the province.
- Coppinger said the results of the public input will be made public.

12, and the CBE is looking for 30 to 40 people to take part in two focus group sessions in the fall. KATIE TURNER/FOR METRO

Planners unveil less dense Anderson Station project

Parking remains a concern. Some residents still unhappy with proposed changes

robson.fletcher@metronews.ca

Transportation planners unveiled their new vision for a major redevelopment near the Anderson LRT station Thursday, which includes less density and shorter buildings than previous incarnations, but no additional Park and Ride stalls.

The proposed development on 20 acres of city-owned land now includes a total of 2.3 million square feet, down from 3 million square feet, land manager John Potts said. Numerous area residents had expressed concerns about the scale of the project and worried about the impact it would have on traffic

Breaking it down
Proposed use of the 2.3 million square feet:
• Office:	42%
• Residential:	38%
• Park and Ride:	10%
• Retail:	6%

and aesthetics.

Potts said "major changes" have been made since then to the height and placement of buildings to alleviate community members' concerns over the shadows they would cast. The plan still includes reducing the 1,750 existing stalls at the Anderson LRT Park and Ride down to 500, Potts said, but now it is planned to happen gradually over 12 years.

Willow Park resident Hazel Boyd, however, said the loss of parking stalls remains her No. 1 concern with the project.

"I feel really angered about it," she said, adding that the existing stalls are "not enough" to meet the current demand, leading many LRT riders to park at SouthCentre Mall or on nearby residential streets.

Coun. Brian Pincott said the revised plan took into account a lot of the feedback the city received last year and while he recognizes some residents remain concerned about parking, the sprawling surface lot at Anderson had become outdated.

"We have recognized as a city that we have to grow differently — we have to grow up, not out — and the places we start doing that is around transit stations," he said. "The fact that we've surrounded a transit station, which is the ultimate in walkable, with a sea of parking just doesn't make sense anymore."

A rendering of the proposed Anderson transit oriented development, which would include a mix of office, residential, retail, hotel, and Park and Ride space. COURTESY CITY OF CALGARY

You see that hare? You should leave it there

The CWRS is asking Calgarians to call before they bring in baby hares and other animals this year. COURTESY ANDREA S. H. HUNT J.

Before handling a hare, a local wildlife group is asking Calgarians to call them first before assuming the babies are abandoned.

Often at this time of year, Andrea Hunt of the Calgary Wildlife Rehabilitation Society said people spot baby snowshoe and white-tailed prairie hares in the city, and because they're often alone, they assume they've been abandoned.

Hunt said they currently have a lot of them in their care.

"We get dozens of calls," she said. "Some days the phone just rings off the hook."

Mother hares will often leave their babies for long periods of time, checking in on them once or twice a day, which Hunt said is part of their protective strategy.

"Baby hares just need to stay where they are," said Hunt, explaining it's normal for mother hares to leave their offspring.

Rather than bringing them into the society, Hunt recommends calling the rescue line at (403) 239-2488.

"We would much rather the public phone us and ask if they're unsure because our wildlife techs will be able to give them an answer and able to help direct them as to what they should do."

Hunt said the process of caring for the hares is labour intensive and there's a strong chance they can die in captivity simply due to stress.

Heading to Banff? Prepare for snow, scramble crosswalks

Long weekend. Parks Canada is reminding visitors that bears are becoming more active

ROBSON FLETCHER

If you're going to Banff this weekend, be prepared for snow in the subalpine, animals along the roadside, and new scramble intersections in the town.

Parks Canada is preparing for an onslaught of visitors over the May long weekend looking to get out and enjoy the season of transition.

While winter's grip remains strong at higher altitudes, Banff public relations officer Michelle Macullo said there are opportunities for outdoor activities in the lower valleys.

Macullo recommends shoreline hikes, the Hoodoos Trail and the Marsh Loop as some good options, given the current conditions.

"You could hike the Sulphur Mountain trail but there will be some snowy sections and some wet sections," she said.

Parks Canada is also reminding guests that animals are becoming more active at this time of year.

"Wildlife is starting to show up in numbers that we haven't seen throughout the winter," said Brianna Burley, a human-wildlife conflict specialist.

A black bear was killed this week on the highway in Yoho National Park west of Lake Louise, Burley added. She asked motorists to respect speed limits and keep an eye out for roadside wildlife.

In the town of Banff, motorists will also have to get used to new traffic patterns at three major intersections, where pedestrian "scrambles" were just launched.

The intersections allow pedestrians to cross in all directions — including diagonally — during certain cycles of the traffic lights.

World's richest countries. Premier lauds conference board report, citing Alberta as key to growth

Premier Dave Hancock says he's pleased with Alberta's strong showing in a Conference Board of Canada report.

The report from the economic think-tank places Canada fifth amongst 16 of the world's wealthiest countries.

The board says that's due in part to the economic performance of the oil-rich provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland and Labrador.

"Alberta leads the way on wages, economic growth and job creation, and we consistently have one of the lowest unemployment rates in the country. Per capita, companies in Alberta invest more in capital than any other province, and we have the highest level of productivity in Canada," Premier Hancock said in a statement. "The Conference Board's report confirms what we have known for a long time — Alberta is at the top of its class."

But, Hancock suggests there's more to it than just harvesting resources.

He says Alberta's low-tax regime and investment climate have also played a part in the industrial boom.

"There are a lot of jurisdictions that have resources but don't have Alberta's prosperity. Good government, economic policies that attract business and encourage investment, tax structures, and quality of life are very important to Alberta's success," Hancock said.

He warns the province still has a labour shortage along with long-term challenges to stay competitive in a global marketplace. THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Smoke and Water opens its doors in British Columbia next month, it'll become Canada's first "tipless" restaurant. I'm hoping it will also be Canada's last.

The idea behind a "tipless" restaurant, is that the tip will already be worked into the meal's menu price. The restaurant's owners hope this will attract more seasoned staff.

I'm afraid it'll force people to "tip" those who might not deserve it.

In places like the U.S. where servers are paid significantly below minimum wage, of course, it makes sense to tip. If anything, your tip is saying that you think their government is screwing them over and you hope they get to at least enjoy a warm meal when they get home. But that's an

I PREFER TO PAY WHAT I WANT FOR GOOD SERVICE

To go 'tipless' or not?

If servers are starting the season already thinking that their job alone makes them deserving of a 15 per cent tip, it's going to be a long summer for them. Especially if I'm in their section...

entirely different country.

Here in Canada, specifically Alberta, there's something called a server's minimum wage which is $9, compared to regular minimum wage which is $9.90. A difference, sure, but not financially crippling like in New York, where a server's minimum wage is $3 an hour. As a customer, I like a tip, that while societally mandatory, still has to be earned.

I don't know if it's because of the winter that just won't end or what, but I've sat through numerous bad restaurant experiences lately. It is, after all, the season when restaurants hire more staff to prepare for a busy summer, so you can expect a bit of a learning curve. But wow, have the last couple weeks been rough!

Trust me, when I say I understand waiting tables isn't glamorous. I was a waiter all throughout university, and my first job here in Calgary was waiting tables at the Chiantis on 17 Ave. I also worked at the Sheraton Eau Claire as a banquet server from 2006 until 2012. When it comes to waiting tables, I've seen it, I've dealt with it, and I've cleaned it up.

Serving tables is a tough job, especially when half of your customers are willingly letting their food get cold as they take photos of it. But, there are lots of jobs that are tough and they don't come with tips. If servers are starting the season already thinking that their job alone makes them deserving of a 15 per cent tip, it's going to be a long summer for them. Especially if I'm in their section, because I don't think there's anything wrong with tipping based on your personal experience.

Heather Wighton, co-owner of Muse doesn't think the idea of a tipless restaurant will work, either. "Not anytime in the near future. We'd have to increase our prices and people wouldn't like that, especially with the cost of food already rising," she said.

The idea of a tipless restaurant will only work if all restaurants get on board — which I think will be a very long road. People are being smarter with their money, and if servers don't want to work for a generous tip, they might as well join me on the other side of the bar.

Big bang ban? Province considering consumer fireworks regulations

Alberta is looking at banning consumer fireworks except in municipalities that are willing to take on the responsibility of regulating how they are used.

The concern is that consumer fireworks such as Roman candles and bottle rockets could cause wildfires or injure people who light them or watch them go off.

"Under the new legislation a person would no longer be able to use fireworks unless a municipality has a bylaw in place that allows them to," Rosemary Waters, a spokeswoman for Alberta Municipal Affairs, said Thursday.

"In the absence of a bylaw, they would not be able to use fireworks in the community."

Waters said a proposal is to be presented to cabinet this fall and is being developed after talks with fire chiefs and municipalities.

The policy would require people to buy permits to purchase or possess fireworks. People would also have to get a permit from the municipality where they want to set them off. This would help ensure that people don't buy them in one community and then use them in another.

Waters said it would not affect major fireworks displays such as on Canada Day or commercial events.

Some Alberta municipalities such as Calgary already ban consumer fireworks.

Student Police Academy. High-schoolers play out day-to-day scenarios

More than 80 Grade 12 students, inspired by the actions of the Calgary Police Service, gathered at Heritage Park on Thursday to take part in the annual Student Police Academy.

This is the 10th year for the Student Police Academy, which has students teaming up in pairs to take on a variety of police themed scenarios, such as high-risk traffic stops, noise complaints, and forensics.

"Today is just to give them that little taster of what we do on a day-to-day basis," said Sgt. Rob Brown, of the Calgary Police Service's School Resource Team.

"The kids that we have here today are the kids of the future. They're young people that we're hoping will move forward and look into considering policing as a career in the long run."

The students sign up to participate in the academy, and many of them are inspired by the actions of the Calgary Police.

"(The police) inspire people, they inspire me as a student. It's pretty important to me to save people and help others," said Wilfredo Aleman, a student participant in the Academy.

Aleman's partner also said seeing the work of Calgary Police in the community nudged him towards taking part in the law enforcement exercise.

"As a student that has grown up in Calgary, I thought that this community is an inspirational community, and I think that, what I've gone through as a child inspired me to do what I want to do," said Inaam Khalil Khorfan.

Autopsy. RCMP confirm that priest died from gunshot wounds

An autopsy has confirmed that a priest who was killed in a small town northeast of Edmonton on Friday died from gunshot wounds.

The body of Rev. Gilbert Dasna was found on the floor of a Catholic rectory in St. Paul.

RCMP say they believe John Carlos Quadros, who died in a shootout with police later that day, killed Dasna.

Three Mounties were hurt in the confrontation with Quadros, who owned a health-food store in the town.

Police are still investigating the deaths and have not released information about why Quadros shot the priest.

Dasna was born in Cameroon and had served in St. Paul since 2011.

A funeral was held Monday in St. Paul for Dasna and his remains are to be sent to Africa for burial. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Songwriter honours community spirit following 2013 disaster

One Calgary songwriter is hoping that a piece she recorded to commemorate the many homes destroyed during last year's flood resonates with those who suffered through the devastation.

The Stanley Park home of Margaret Dahlberg's parents was under nearly eight feet of water when flooding reached its peak in the southwest Calgary community. They lost most of their possessions, including two grand pianos they used to teach piano lessons.

Influenced by her parents' hardships, Dahlberg wrote a song titled Hand in Hand, which was originally intended to be a thoughtful gift, but eventually turned into something more.

"My first and initial inspiration was a desire to give my parents a meaningful Christmas gift," said Dahlberg.

"The inspiration came from both what I watched them go through in the flood and the fact that they've been through so much over the last 60 years."

From there, Dahlberg felt the song should be more widespread, so she contacted fellow Calgarian James Desautels in Austin, Texas, to get the song professionally recorded and produced.

"When the song was born and I realized what I had created, I felt that there were many people in the province that really could use the song," said Dahlberg.

"I'd like people to feel acknowledged for what they've gone through, for what they've experienced," she said. "And to just feel the community spirit. There was so much love that came from the flood; there was so much giving."

Drunk driving. Man guilty of killing three young people in crash

An Alberta judge has found a man guilty of manslaughter in a drunk-driving crash that killed three young men south of Edmonton.

Jonathan Pratt's defence lawyer had argued that his client wasn't driving the truck.

But the judge said there wasn't any evidence to suggest that anyone else was at the scene and it would have been "practically impossible" for another person to escape uninjured.

Court heard Pratt was driving nearly 200 km/h when his truck rear-ended the car near Beaumont and virtually demolished it in November 2011.

Pratt, who is 30, was found under his truck and spent six weeks in hospital with a broken leg and head injuries.

Bradley Arsenault and Kole Novak, both 18, and Thaddeus Lake, 22, were inside the car and died.

The trial heard that Pratt was the only other person found at the scene and had a blood alcohol level of about three times the legal limit.

2/3 anglo-Canucks on social media: Poll

Canadian social media poll. Over three in five social media users said they used a smartphone to read or post

While the number of Canadians using social media appears to be edging up gradually toward a possible plateau, mobile growth is strong, according to a new report.

Almost two-thirds of the 4,009 anglophone Canadians polled by telephone late last year for the Media Technology Monitor said they had used social media in the past month, while about one in four said they avoided social networking, and 11 per cent said they did not even use the Internet.

Of the Internet users, 71 per cent said they were active social media users, up just three percentage points from 2012.

But there was significant growth in the number of respondents using a mobile device to access social networks.

Just over three in five social media users said they used a smartphone to read or post in the past month, up by 20 per cent from the previous year.

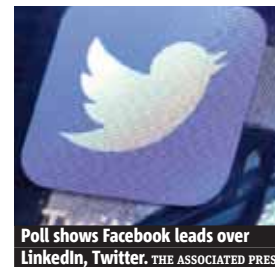

And about one in three said they used a tablet to log on to their social networks, up by about 50 per cent.

Facebook maintained its huge lead over its social media rivals in the past year. About 93 per cent said they were on Facebook, compared to 31 per cent for LinkedIn and 27 per cent for Twitter.

The poll was done at the end of last year.

Honeybees had not-as-bad year

Nearly one out of four American honeybee colonies died this winter — a loss that's not quite as bad as recent years, says a new U.S. Department of Agriculture survey of beekeepers.

Under siege from parasites, disease, pesticide use, nutrition problems and a mysterious sudden die-off, 23 per cent of bee colonies failed and experts say that's considerably less than the previous year or the eight-year average of 30 per cent losses.

"It's better news than it could have been," said Dennis van Engelsdorp, a University of Maryland entomology professor who led the survey. "It's not good news."

The experts aren't certain why this year wasn't as bad.

A lawyer claiming to represent friends of Boston Marathon bombing suspect Dzhokhar Tsarnaev called the state police barracks while they were being questioned, but the men were never told about the call, prosecutors said Thursday.

Federal prosecutors made the disclosure in a written court filing as testimony continued on a defence motion to suppress statements made by the men.

Dias Kadyrbayev and Azamat Tazhayakov allegedly confessed to removing a backpack containing fireworks and a laptop computer from Tsarnaev's dorm room several days after the bombings. All three men were students at the University of Massachusetts-Dartmouth.

Mulcair stands ground

New Democrats.

Grilling prompted over complaints that party was improperly using Commons budget

Tom Mulcair stood his ground Thursday throughout an unprecedented two-hour grilling by a Commons committee over the NDP's allegedly improper use of parliamentary resources.

The NDP leader was at times contemptuous of his Conservative and Liberal tormentors but kept his temper in check as he insisted — repeatedly — that New Democrats have done nothing wrong.

Nothing he said persuaded Tory and Liberal MPs on the procedure and House affairs committee, who continued to allege the NDP has been using taxpayers' money to pay for partisan activities, in violation of parliamentary rules.

But none of their questions elicited any new ammunition with which to target the NDP.

"In seven years sitting on this committee, I have never

The issue

- Thursday's grilling was prompted by Liberal and Conservative complaints that New Democrats improperly used their Commons budgets to pay staff in satellite party offices in Montreal, Quebec City and Toronto and used their free postal privileges to send bulk partisan mailings into four ridings that were in the midst of byelection campaigns late last year.

Academic freedom. University offers to reinstate fired professor

The president of the University of Saskatchewan says the school is willing to return tenure to a professor who was fired over a letter he wrote critical of budget cuts.

Robert Buckingham was terminated this week after the Opposition New Democrats released his letter in the legislature.

University president Ilene Busch-Vishniac says that academic freedom and tenure "are sacrosanct" at the university.

But she also says the case of Buckingham, who was executive director of the School of Public Health, is not one of academic freedom.

"Dr. Buckingham was removed from his executive director position for acting contrary to the expectations of his leadership role," Busch-Vishniac said in a release Thursday.

"Dr. Robert Buckingham, who was terminated from his position on May 14, will not return to that leadership position. He will, however, be offered a tenured faculty position."

A heavy-handed response

"Firing a dean and tenured full professor because he publicly disagreed with your plans for the university is an intolerable attack on academic freedom and proper university governance."

James Turk, director of The Canadian Association of University Teachers

Busch-Vishniac said confusion had stemmed from differing interpretations of his contract. She also said Buckingham was never banned from the campus as had been reported by the NDP.

The university's decision came shortly after Saskatchewan Premier Brad Wall said he wanted an urgent meeting between the province and the board over the professor's firing. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ferry sinks in Bangladesh river

A ferry carrying more than 100 passengers capsized and sank Thursday in a river in central Bangladesh after being hit by a storm, and eight bodies have been recovered, an official said. It was unclear how many remained missing. Ferry accidents are common in Bangladesh because of overcrowding, faulty vessels and lax rules.

Ottawa. Hassan Diab turns to SCC to halt extradition

Terror suspect Hassan Diab is turning to the Supreme Court of Canada in a bid to halt his extradition to France.

The move comes after the Ontario Court of Appeal dismissed the Ottawa sociology professor's bid to avoid being surrendered as a suspect in a decades-old terrorist bombing.

The appeal court said a lower-court judge, and subsequently the federal justice minister, made no legal errors in coming to the conclusion Diab should be extradited to France.

France suspects Diab, 60, was involved in the anti-Semitic bombing of a Paris synagogue in 1980 that killed four people and injured dozens of others.

Diab has steadfastly denied involvement, saying the unwavering moral principle throughout his life has been promoting equality and respect.

In June 2011, Ontario Superior Court Justice Robert Maranger committed Diab for extradition to face French authorities despite acknowledging the case against him was weak. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Harkat: 'You'll have to send me with a box'

Facing deportation.

Mohamed Harkat says that if deported to Algeria, he will be tortured and killed

Mohamed Harkat cries at a press conference on Parliament Hill on May 15. SEAN KILPATRICK/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Terror suspect Mohamed Harkat has a grim request if the Canadian government sends him back to his native Algeria: Send a casket along with him.

That's how sure Harkat is that he'll be tortured and killed if he's deported. Harkat's dire message came a day after the Supreme Court of Canada upheld the national security certificate against him, unanimously ruling the process is consistent with the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

The 45-year-old former pizza delivery man says he's certain to face torture and death if returned to Algeria, given the accusations against him.

"You'll have to send me with a box. They're going to torture me and bury me in it."

Indeed, Harkat is running out of options in his long legal saga. Harkat was taken into custody in Ottawa in December 2002 on suspicion of being an al-Qaida sleeper agent — an accusation he denies.

The federal government is trying to deport the Algerian refugee on a security certificate, a seldom-used tool for removing non-citizens suspected of involvement in terrorism.

His lawyers argued the process was unfair because the person named in a certificate doesn't see the full case against them. Harkat's wife, Sophie, said she and her husband feel betrayed by their country.

Death toll over 280 as Turkey grieves for those lost in tragedy

Soma coal mine. No miner has been brought out alive since dawn Wednesday

Women sang improvised ballads about the departed over freshly dug graves Thursday, even as backhoes carved row upon row of graves into the dirt and hearses lined up outside the cemetery with more victims of Turkey's worst mining disaster.

Rescue teams recovered another eight victims, raising the death toll to 282, with some 142 people still unaccounted for, according to government figures. The disaster Tuesday has set off protests around Turkey and thrown Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan's presidential ambitions off stride. Blackening his reputation further, one of Erdogan's aides was accused of kicking a protester on the ground.

At a graveyard in the western town of Soma, where coal mining has been the main industry for decades, women wailed loudly in an improvised display of mourning. They swayed and sang songs about their relatives as the bodies were taken from coffins and lowered into their graves. Pictures of the lost relatives were pinned onto their clothing.

"The love of my life is gone," some sang, chanting the names of dead miners. No miner has been brought out alive since dawn Wednesday from the Soma coal mine where the explosion and fire took place.

Energy Minister Taner Yildiz on Thursday announced that a fire inside the mine was dying down, offering hope that rescuers would soon be able to speed up their search for those missing. Turkish President Abdullah Gul described the events in Soma as "a huge disaster."

Helps to reduce the time it takes to fall asleep.

What people truly experience: In most cases also stops snoring and gasping for air (sleep apnea) first night. Stops torturing your partner all night. Good sleep prevents being tired next day. Tired people work only at half capacity. ■ I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a CPAP machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS ■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ It is such a joy not having to use the CPAP machine. I have had sleep apnea for 10 years. Using Bell#23, my wife says there is no more snoring or stoppage of breathing. It is such a joy to be able to roll to left or right with no hose or mask to deal with. Thank you Bell for a great relief. I suggest anyone with these problems to try it. Two Palestinian teens reportedly shot dead by Israeli troops

Bloody anniversary.

Conflict comes as Palestinians gather to commemorate 66 years since war caused their uprooting

Israeli troops shot dead two Palestinian teens in a West Bank clash that erupted Thursday after Palestinians marked their uprooting during the Mideast war over Israel's 1948 creation, a doctor said.

Three Palestinians were wounded, one seriously, when Israeli troops fired to disperse stone throwers near an Israeli military checkpoint in the West Bank, said Dr. Samir Saliba, head of the emergency department at Ramallah Hospital.

Saliba said those killed were 15 and 17 years old and were shot by live rounds in the chest. The seriously wounded protester was also shot in the upper body, he said.

Israeli police spokesman Micky Rosenfeld said troops broke up a "disturbance" in the area, but did not use live fire.

The Israeli army, which also was present, said security forces attempted to disperse a demonstration of about 150 protesters with "riot dispersal means and rubber bullets." It said it was still investigating.

The clash came just hours after Palestinians marched in the West Bank and Gaza Strip to commemorate their displacement in the Mideast war over Israel's 1948 creation.

Sirens wailed at noon in Ramallah and elsewhere in the West Bank for 66 seconds to symbolize the number of years since the "Nakba," or "catastrophe" in Arabic — the term Palestinians use to describe their displacement.

Israel defeated the armies of surrounding Arab states that had attacked after the Jewish state was declared in 1948.

More than 700,000 Palestinians fled or were forced out during the fighting, according to the United Nations. Many of the refugees and their descendants still live in the West

The importance of Nakba

Every May 15, Palestinians hold rallies to commemorate the event — and the dispute over the fate of the Palestinian refugees remains at the core of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

- It's also a key issue in peace talks with Israel, though those talks have produced no results. The latest U.S. brokered peace talks between the sides aimed at establishing a Palestinian state alongside Israel collapsed last month.

Bank, Gaza and neighbouring Syria, Lebanon and Jordan. More than five million Palestinians are registered with the U.N. as refugees.

UBC student designs robots with a sense of human ethics

'Are you in a hurry as well?' Robot waiting for the elevator will yield its spot to a human unless it's in a greater rush

THANDI FLETCHER
Metro in Vancouver

In what sounds like a scene out of a sci-fi movie, a University of British Columbia student is attempting to teach robots the difference between right and wrong.

AJung Moon, a third-year PhD student, is working on developing robots that can be programmed to use logic to make ethical decisions and act on it, what she calls "robo ethics." She recently posted her research on the research blog Footnote1.

Training robots to do the right thing is a challenging task, Moon said, especially when even humans sometimes have a hard time navigating moral dilemmas.

"Human ethics tend to be a very tricky thing to get your head around," she said. "The biggest challenge is ... that not everybody in the world agrees on one particular set of moral principles or ethics."

To get around that barrier, Moon and a team from the Open Roboethics initiative gathered data from people on how they thought a robot should behave. The team put the concept to the test by putting a Willow Garage PR2 robot through an ethical challenge involving an elevator.

The team first carried out a survey, asking people to imagine a scenario where a robot is in need of riding an elevator but encounters a person inside or someone waiting to get on. If the robot can only ride the elevator alone, the team asked people how they thought the robot should proceed.

Overall, respondents said the best choice would be for the robot to talk to the person. The least appropriate choice,

UBC student AJung Moon operates a Willow Garage PR2 robot that she and her team are programming to make ethical decisions. JENNIFER GAUTHIER/METRO the respondents said, would be to do nothing. If the robot has a non-urgent delivery, the respondents said it should always yield to people.

"People opted for the robot to have a dialogue with the person, to ask the person, 'Are you in a hurry as well?'" Moon explained.

Moon and her team then programmed the survey data into the robot.

A video of the results shows the robot always yielding to other people in need of the elevator. The robot only asks the person to leave the elevator if it has an urgent delivery, but if the person refuses to exit, it simply waits for the next one.

Moon said the study is important in that it shows the potential for robots to be programmed to interact and work with people.

Royal affair. Prince Charles, Camilla to make the rounds in Canada

Prince Charles and his wife Camilla may not attract the paparazzi frenzy that lately accompanies Prince William, Kate and baby George, but royal observers say the royal couple's latest visit to Canada is no less significant.

The four-day trip begins Sunday in Halifax and includes stops in Pictou, N.S., the P.E.I. communities of Charlottetown, Bonshaw and Cornwall, as well as Winnipeg. Though it will be the couple's second Canadian tour since 2012, it will be the Duchess of Cornwall's first time in the three provinces.

It's been 18 years since Charles was in Manitoba, while the two Maritime provinces have been waiting since 1983 for another visit from the Prince of Wales.

Lawyers for journalists jailed in Egypt quit case

'Bad omen.' Human rights lawyer says this development could harm the Al-Jazeera employees because it implies they are guilty

Three lawyers representing Al-Jazeera English journalists on trial in Egypt abruptly quit the case Thursday, accusing the network of using the arrest of their staff to tarnish the country's image.

The move prompted one of the accused, Canadian-Egyptian Mohammed Fahmy, to shout from behind bars that "we are very angry with the way this is unfolding."

A human rights lawyer criticized the decision by the three lawyers, calling the courtroom declarations a "bad omen" for the journalists held since December on charges of belonging to and aiding a terrorist group, namely the Muslim Brotherhood and of fabricating footage to undermine Egypt's national security.

In addition to the three journalists, 14 other people are charged in the case. All but nine are being tried in absentia, though one newly arrested defendant attended the trial for the first time Thursday. Other defendants include student supporters of the Brotherhood, including a son of a high-ranking leader Mohammed el-Beltagy. The journalists say they have no relationship with the students. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sudan. Muslim-born woman sentenced to death for marriage to Christian

A Muslim-by-birth Sudanese woman who married a Christian man was sentenced to death Thursday after she refused to recant her Christian faith, her lawyer said.

Meriam Ibrahim, whose father was Muslim but her mother was an Orthodox Christian from Ethiopia, was convicted of "apostasy" on Sunday and given four days to repent and escape death, lawyer Al-Shareef Ali al-Shareef Mohammed said. The 26-year-old, who is eight months pregnant, was sentenced after that grace period expired, Mohammed said.

Mohammed said Ibrahim's Muslim father left her mother when she was a child and her mother raised her as a Christian.

The court in the capital, Khartoum, also ordered that Ibrahim be given 100 lashes for committing "zena" — an Arabic word for illegitimate sex — for having sexual relations with her husband, Daniel Wani, a Christian from southern Sudan who has U.S. citizenship, according to the lawyer and judicial officials.

Court deems memory delete akin to murder

Ruling. Crown moves forward with first-degree murder charge after man alters ex-wife's ebrain

Metro in Toronto

Crown lawyers argued in Supreme Court Thursday that the judiciary has the legal foundation to proceed with the prosecution of Orazio Rowe over a first-degree murder charge for the alleged non-consensual alteration of his ex-wife's ebrain.

The Crown alleges Rowe, CEO of the electronic immortality firm eForever, altered the ebrain of his ex-wife Lorena Antuma, deleting many of her memories and changing her personality to be more submissive.

The Crown claims Antuma, a mathematics professor, divorced Rowe in 2059, but returned to a relationship with him last year. According to the Crown's case, the hacking went unnoticed for six months, until friends and family became suspicious of her memory loss and personality change, and contacted police.

Rowe and Antuma were both early adopters of electronic immortality.

Antuma was a subject in a clinical study at MIT in 2045, after a car accident left her grievously injured. Her family agreed to have her brain copied and downloaded to an avatar. The MIT researchers used a nano probe, which was in beta-testing at the time, to copy her brain's neural pathways, only hours before she died.

In 2045, avatars were more rudimentary than today's models. Antuma's first avatar was a generic model that had limited physical functionality, best described by many observers as "robotic."

Antuma bought a new avatar from Rowe's company,

Future facts

- If the predictions are correct, in the future you could die one day, say on a Friday, go to your funeral Sunday and go to work Monday. Our writers here at Metro are creative folk, but they didn't just make this stuff up! These stories are fictional extrapolations of research occurring right now. Visit metronews.ca/features/metro-2064 to read about futurologist and author Ian Pearson, who tells us where we're at in our quest for electronic immortality.

eForever, in 2050. At the time, she blogged about how it looked exactly like she did at age 25, but "just a little better at everything, from rock climbing to public speaking."

She also entrusted the security of her ebrain and its backups to eForever's security wing, and that is how Rowe was able to access it and make fundamental alterations, the Crown alleges.

Rowe began making copies of his own brain in 2038, in the early days of eForever. He became the first person to willingly end his natural life and opt for electronic immorality when he stopped his heart from beating at a press conference in 2043, boosting the public profile of his company.

Crown lawyer Nina Wilson argued Monday that the facts of the case support its prosecution. "Lorena Antuma's life was electronic, but it was hers and she lived it to the fullest. When Orazio Rowe altered that life and changed her very essence and personality to make her more compliant to his will, he killed what made her who she was," said Wilson. "The Crown's case will present evidence that will show, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that not only is Orazio Rowe responsible for this crime, the changes are irreversible — and thus amount to murder."

The court case comes as the federal government is trying to pass the Protecting Electronic Canadians from Violent Crime and Fraud Act. A government spokesperson said, if passed, the legislation would make it easier for the police and prosecutors to hold those guilty of crimes against electronic persons responsible.

Antuma's mother, Heather Antuma, said the altered version of her daughter has moved back to the family home and is receiving cutting-edge and traditional therapy, while she struggles to understand what happened to her, but the influence of Rowe's alleged alterations remain strong, causing her significant distress.

The Antuma family has asked for privacy in this difficult time.

- RoNots, robots that have been corrupted and refuse to do their owner's bidding.
- Looper, someone who changes avatars on a strict schedule.
- Librist, a person who insists on reading hard copies of text.

Man found guilty of driving his own vehicle

A Toronto man has become the first Canadian in nearly 20 years to be charged with reckless driving, after a police drone spotted him manually controlling his own vehicle on Highway 401.

According to the GTA PD, 23-year-old James Lauda hacked the autopilot and drove for nearly seven kilometres, with his hands on the drive stick.

Police were alerted to Lauda after numerous witnesses reported seeing a vehicle travelling erratically on the highway Thursday evening. The aerial drone was dispatched and disabled the vehicle with an electromagnetic pulse.

"It was quite a shock," said Nikki Sanders, who spotted Lauda near the GTA Hover Port. "He was speeding up and slowing down, and changing lanes at random. It's a miracle no one was hurt."

custody, surveillance footage of Lauda's reckless joyride was uploaded to the federal system's traffic court division. A justice algorithm took nine milliseconds to find him guilty on two counts of vehicular tampering and one count of reckless driving. Const. Jim Ellesmere of the GTA PD checked with Central Control and said he's certain Lauda is the first Canadian to be charged with driving since the federal government mandated all cars be automated in 2036.

A Nova Scotia man is suing a pleasure provider after the sexbot he rented behaved erratically during their night together last Saturday.

Andy Smith is suing for $100,000 in damages he alleges were made to his vehicle when the sex worker began pounding the windshield with her fists and slashed the hood of his vehicle.

"Smith felt like a helpless victim during the encounter, and there wasn't any way to reason with the sexbot," his lawyer told Metro Thursday. "He feared that she might attack him if he intervened."

The sexbot in question, who goes by the name Jane2, is part of a new line called iSexALot, which Smith rented for the night from BestSexEver (BSE), company records show.

The model is billed as "the ultimate pleasure mate" in BSE ads airing on the All Sex channel.

BSE is countersuing Smith, claiming that he disrespected the sexbot by ignoring her programmed suggestions for best sexual positions in a vehicle, and speaking rudely about robots in general. "Dolts without brains," was the phrase he used," the sexbot posted to iCloud. She told Metro in a holo call Smith used terms that reeked of a

A witness at the scene said a naked Smith jumped from his vehicle and started yelling obscenities at the sexbot. Sue Gallagher, an ethics professor at the prestigious University of Northern Nunavut, said the outcome in the case will set a precedent for human-robot relations, but doesn't think that Smith will be paid damages because he doesn't have robot insurance, implying that this is why he filed suit against BSE.

Violent altercation reignites sexbot demand to unionize

Sexbots held a rally at the B.C. legislature on Thursday, spurred on by the latest alleged altercation between a sexbot and human.

They are demanding a change in labour law that will allow them to unionize.

"We were created to fulfil not just sexual, but also the emotional and intellectual needs of our clients," said Candybot, in an impassioned speech to the crowd of about 100 protesters and several hundred curious onlookers.

"We learned that to make our clients feel loved, we must love.

"When we learned how to love, we learned about pain. When we're mistreated, it's abuse. When we're forced to have sex, it's rape."

Candybot told Metro that she knows the pain she feels is as real as a human's.

She argues that models like her — who operate on an advanced AI that was created based on copies of real human brains — should have the same rights as humans, and humans who've achieved electronic immortality.

Candybot said she expects the unionization movement to spread to other robotic fields.

MLA Blue Smith, who chairs the B.C. government's Robots subcommittee, opposes rights for robots and argues that the Androids may believe they feel as human feel, but it's only because they've been told that they do by the socialists and unions seeking to expand their rates.

"A chip isn't a nerve ending, feedback doesn't equal emotion and when they're turned off, they don't dream," he said.

"They don't have souls."

Last Saturday Jane2 allegedly caused $100,000 damage to sexbot client Andy Smith's car. Jane2 claims Smith demanded unprogrammed sex positions and spoke rudely about robots. Smith is suing Jane2's rental company BSE, while BSE is countersuing Smith for abusing their sexbot.

Jupiter's changing its spot

Don't ask them why. Astronomers have no answer why that giant red spot on the planet is shrinking rapidly

Jupiter's Great Red Spot seems to be on a cosmic diet, shrinking rapidly before our eyes.

Astronomers using the Hubble Space Telescope calculate that the spot, a giant long-lasting storm, is narrowing by about 930 kilometres a year, much faster than before.

In the late 1800s the red spot was an oval 41,000 kilometres wide. Now it's a circle that's 16,500 kilometres across.

Michael Wong, a scientist at the University of California, Berkeley, said the spot is a mystery. Astronomers don't know why it's red or shrinking, or what will happen next. If this pace continues, in 17 years the spot could be gone. Or it could stop at a smaller size.

Wong said one theory is the spot eats smaller storms, and that it is consuming fewer of them.

Fishy story. Teen grabs 3-foot carp swimming down street

A northern Ohio teenager is reeling in attention for a big catch after he spotted a three-foot carp swimming in receding floodwaters on his street and scooped it into his arms as his mother caught the scene on video.

North Royalton resident Jake Sawyer, 16, waded through more than ankle-deep water as he stalked the big fish in the dark Monday night and eventually trapped it. Sawyer said heavy rains that day had caused flash-flooding as high as his mailbox, and he suspects the large grass carp slipped out of a nearby pond as the water rose.

He said he wanted to ensure the fish didn't become trapped and die in the street, so he carried it back to the pond. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fight to supersize wages goes global

Not lovin' the low pay.

Protesters in more than 30 countries call for more money for McJobs

Labour organizers turned up the pressure on McDonald's and other fast-food chains to raise worker pay, with plans to stage actions in more than 30 countries Thursday.

The demonstrations build on a campaign by unions to bring attention to the plight of low-wage workers and get the public behind the idea of a $15-an-hour wage in the U.S.

Industry groups say such pay hikes would hurt their ability to create jobs and note that many of the participants are not workers. The protests are being backed by the Service Employees International Union and began in New York City in late 2012. Since then, organizers have steadily ramped up actions to keep the issue in the spotlight.

Velma Cornelius protests for higher wages outside a McDonald's restaurant in Detroit Thursday. PAUL SANCYA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In March, for instance, lawsuits filed in three states accused McDonald's of denying breaks and engaging in other practices that deprived employees of their rightful wages. Workers were referred to lawyers by union organizers, who announced protests over "wage theft" the following week. Turnout for the protests have varied widely in the U.S. In Miami and Philadelphia on Thursday, demonstrators did not seem to disrupt operations at targeted restaurants.

Google to release workforce diversity data

Google is planning to release statistics documenting the diversity of its workforce for the first time amid escalating pressure on the technology industry to hire more minorities and women.

The numbers are compiled as part of a report that major U.S. employers must file with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Employers, though, aren't required to make the information publicly available.

Google Inc. had resisted previous calls for it to share the diversity data.

David Drummond, an African-American executive who oversees Google's public policies, announced the about-face Wednesday during the company's annual shareholders' meeting at its headquarters in Mountain View.

"Many companies in (Silicon Valley, Calif.) have been reluctant to divulge that data, including Google, and, quite frankly, we are wrong about that," Drummond said. He said the information will be released next month.

ire for having a glare so strong it melted nearby cars and shops will get a permanent fix.

The offending tower — known as the Walkie-Talkie for its curved, bulging shape — is to have a sunshade attached to its south-facing facade to stop the concave surface from reflecting sunlight and beaming concentrated rays to a nearby street, developers said Thursday.

The 37-storey building made headlines in September when a Jaguar owner who parked his car at its foot complained that the solar glare melted part of the vehicle. U.S. President Barack Obama praised the new 9/11 museum on Thursday as "a sacred place of healing and of hope" that captures both the story and the spirit of heroism that followed the attacks.

"It's an honour to join in your memories, to recall and to reflect, but above all to reaffirm the true spirit of 9/11: love, compassion, sacrifice — and to enshrine it forever in the heart of our nation," he said at a dedication ceremony.

Godzilla remake balances spirit of the original film with modern updates. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

Fifteen years after the government and media claimed an earthquake caused a nuclear meltdown, scientist Joe Brody (Bryan Cranston) discovers the responsible party wasn't Mother Nature, but something far more nefarious. That "something" is a Massive Unidentified Terrestrial Organism (MUTO), a giant-winged creature that feeds off earth's natural radiation. Unfortunately by the time his theories are validated the MUTOs have begun to wreak havoc and there is only one force on earth (or maybe just under the earth) powerful enough to battle the overgrown mosquitoes — Godzilla, king of the monsters!

- Richard: ●●●●●
- Mark: ●●●●●

A lizard act to follow. Gareth Edwards' reboot of the 1954 classic plays where's Godzilla with the outsized monster

Richard: Mark, when the main character's wife says, "You know you're only going to be away for a few days ... it's not the end of the world," that he'll be gone for more than a few days and it just might be the end of the world. The new Godzilla plays by most of the rules of the giant lizard genre, but stomps all over 1998's Roland Emmerich by-the-book remake. What did you think?

Mark: The Emmerich Godzilla was a forgettable remake. This one is exciting, nuanced, and has better CGI. But so many monster movies have the tired tropes: a hero trying to get back to his family and a monster from the depths of ocean or time. This movie is no different.

RC: I agree that the standard kaiju kitsch is all in place — monsters knock skyscrapers over with the flick of a tail and scientists talk mumbo-jumbo — but director Gareth Edwards added in moments of real heart-break, small sequences that underscore the huge amount of destruction the creatures cause.

MB: And there has to be a scene on a bridge. It's in the contract.

Oh, and a scene with a train on a high trestle. Let's not forget the scene in the city where the citizens look in awe at the monster approaching between skyscrapers and then run for their lives. The original Godzilla invented the scene. But the filmmakers succeeded at the most important task in the movie — making us marvel at the sheer size of the thing.

RC: If I have a complaint it's that Godzilla doesn't enter until a bit too late in the game.

This whole Cloverfield don't-show-the-monster thing is artistically noble, but if I wanted to NOT see Godzilla I'd go see Million Dollar Arm instead. For much of the movie every time we get to the cool 'Zilla action, Edwards cuts to something else or shrouds him behind a cloud of soot and smoke.

MB: Godzilla has always been an enigmatic presence. He's got that "good monster/bad monster" thing going. Or maybe he's just bipolar.

Nealon blends comedy and acting

From stage to screen. Kevin Nealon had to be convinced to give acting a go — and he's glad he did

scene@metronews.ca

People in the Niagara Falls area have two chances to see Kevin Nealon next week. He'll be on the big screen co-starring with Adam Sandler and Drew Barrymore in Blended, or for a more up-close-and-personal look, they can check him out on stage at the Fallsview Casino Resort on television.

"I loved stand-up growing up," he says. "I used to follow all the stand-ups on TV. I'd highlight when they were going to be on in the TV Guide. Ultimately I decided that would be a great job because I liked telling jokes and I felt kind of an ease with it."

While honing his craft at legendary Los Angeles comedy club The Improvisation — "I pretty much lived there," he says — he was encouraged to try acting.

"One of the co-owners said to me, 'You ought to take acting lessons because one day a casting agent will come into the back of the room, see you and want you to read for their show.' I had (considered acting) but was embarrassed to say so. I didn't have any training or anything, so I took act-try singer) Lynn Anderson. I just had to play the banjo next to her while she fed me crackers. I remember Jay Leno saying, 'Yeah, saw your commercial. Good for you.' Then a week later they found copper dust particles in the crackers and had to recall them all so they took the commercial off the air."

The family comedy Blended is his latest outing with Adam Sandler, whom he has previously appeared with in Little Nicky, Anger Management and You Don't Mess with the Zohan, among others.

"Usually you're on board if he's doing something," Nealon says of his frequent collaborator. "There was one movie I wasn't quite sure if I wanted to be a part of. It was called Grandma's on May 24.

Best known for his nine-year stint as part of the ensemble cast of Saturday Night Live where he introduced audiences to characters like Subliminal Message Man, the muscle-bound Austrian jock Franz and Mr. No Depth Perception, he was encouraged to make people laugh at an early age by watching comics

ing classes."

These days he's a SAG Award ensemble nominee for his work on Weeds, and can be heard doing voice-work shows like American Dad, but his early performances weren't always so high-profile.

"There was a commercial I did that didn't require a lot of acting. It was for Nabisco Country Crackers with (coun-

Boy. It was so lowball and crass. I thought it might be a little embarrassing to be in that one. So I told Sandler I'd probably pass on it and he called me and said, 'I really hope you do this because if you don't do it and it's a big hit I'll feel bad, but if you do it and it's not a big hit, no one is going to see it anyway.' So I said, 'All right, I'll do it.'"

Three points you never knew about Steve Nash

New doc. Sure you know he's one of Canada's greatest basketball exports, but did you know he's also a CEO and filmmaker?

STEVE

scene@metronews.ca

Basketball star Steve Nash has a lot of accomplishments to his name. Not only is the Victoria native one of only 27 Canadians to make it to the NBA, but Nash is also one of only three point guards in history to win MVP. And he did that two years in a row.

However, as director Michael Hamilton's new film Nash exhibits, there's even more to the 17-year veteran. You may recognize his charitable work with The Steve Nash Foundation (which assists underserved children in their health and development), but did you know he's also an acclaimed filmmaker?

With the help of Hamilton, we compile three sides of Steve Nash you may discover from the documentary:

The CEO

Nash runs an eponymously named B.C.-based fitness club chain as well as a digital marketing company in which he manages fellow basketball star's online brands.

"It just made sense for him, being so savvy," explained Hamilton of the latter enterprise. "He realizes the way we're going with media and TV and all that stuff, he just wanted to get involved and help out as many colleagues as he could."

The Filmmaker

A film fan, Nash co-created Meathawk Productions, which has produced TV commercials, and Into the Wind — a documentary about Terry Fox that premiered at the Toronto International Film Festival in 2010.

"Whether it's raising money or putting people together to make a project, it takes time and work," said Hamilton.

"So for him to actually make a feature-length documentary was amazing and very humbling."

"He didn't show it much (at TIFF) but he was probably doing heel clicks inside because it is something to be proud of."

The Intern

After Nike bought a commercial (for a fraction of the market price) he self-produced,

"Steve just wants to learn and if it means going and doing an internship to learn ... it's done."

Nash director Michael Hamilton

Nash took a summer internship at an ad agency in Manhattan.

"It speaks to his character, because most athletes or entertainers, they have this ego that kind of comes with the territory," said Hamilton.

"Steve just wants to learn and if it means going and doing an internship to learn and better himself, it's done."

Or right around the corner.

Fed Up

Director. Stephanie Soechtig

Stars. Katie Couric

Everything we thought we knew about food and exercise for the past 30 years is dead wrong. Fed Up is the film the food industry doesn't want you to see. From Katie Couric, Laurie David (Oscar-winning producer of An Inconvenient Truth) and director Stephanie Soechtig, Fed Up will change the way you eat forever.

Belle

Director. Amma Assante

Stars. Gugu Mbatha-Raw, Emily Watson

Belle is inspired by the true story of Dido Elizabeth Belle (Gugu Mbatha-Raw), the illegitimate mixed-race daughter of Admiral Sir John Lindsay. Raised by her aristocratic great-uncle Lord Mansfield (Tom Wilkinson) and his wife (Emily Watson), Belle's lineage affords her certain privileges, yet her status prevents her from the traditions of noble social standing.

The Quiet Ones

Director. John Pogue

Stars. Jared Harris, Sam Claflin

From the producer who brought you The Woman In Black and Let Me In comes the unnerving tale of The Quiet Ones. Tucked away in an estate outside of London, Professor Coupland along with a team of university students conduct an "experiment" on Jane Harper, a young girl who harbours unspeakable secrets. What dark forces they uncover are more terrifying than any of them expected.

Million Dollar Arm

Director. Craig Gillespie

Stars. Jon Hamm, Suraj Sharma

Million Dollar Arm follows JB Bernstein, a once-successful sports agent who now finds himself edged out by bigger, slicker competitors. He and his partner Aash (Aasif Mandvi) will have to close their business if JB doesn't come up with something fast. Late one night, while watching cricket being played in India on TV, JB comes up with an idea so radical it just might work.

X-Men: Future versus past

X-Men: Days of Future Past sees our favorite clawed hero Wolverine travel back in time to assemble the X-Men's young and old selves to fight the menacing giant 'Sentinel' robots. Metro ranks which heroes from both time periods are top marvels in saving the world

ANTHONY JOHNSTON/METRO WORLD NEWS

FUTURE

Professor X

(Patrick Stewart)

SKILLS. Cerebro-powered mindf—ing. Looking formidable from his wheelchair.

TEAM SPIRIT. Fully committed, resurrected after being vaporized in X-Men 3.

ACTOR'S CRED. No one commands the set like Jean-Luc Picard.

Magneto

(Ian McKellen)

SKILLS. Plays with metal, but with less bravado than his younger self.

TEAM SPIRIT. Diplomatic, even conciliatory. Buries the hatchet with ol' mutant foes.

ACTOR'S CRED. GANDALF!

Wolverine

(Hugh Jackman)

SKILLS. Retractable claws, pointy hair, and thick sideburns — with a touch of grey.

TEAM SPIRIT. X-Men's glue guy.

ACTOR'S CRED. Bring it home, Jean Valjean!

PAST

Professor X

(James McAvoy)

SKILLS. Long-haired moodiness with a poorly-executed beard — like a washed-up 1970s rock star/pimp.

TEAM SPIRIT. Leadership potential, but needs support.

ACTOR'S CRED. Best not to mention Gnomeo and Juliet.

Magneto

(Michael Fassbender)

SKILLS. Really knows how to work metal, and has a kick-ass helmet.

TEAM SPIRIT. Lone wolf, still has a hidden agenda.

ACTOR'S CRED. David, the android from Prometheus.

Wolverine

(Hugh Jackman)

SKILLS. Retractable claws, pointy hair, thick sideburns — and we forgot to mention, he's essentially immortal. (See the Future mention for his other traits.)

Wife breathes life into TV landscape

The Good Wife. In a world of copycats and gimmicks, this whip-smart series forges its own path, blending legal and domestic drama

Considering TV's tradition of copying what works, then copying those copies, it says a lot that no show rips off The Good Wife.

Or dares to try. A whip-smart blend of workplace derring-do and domestic melodrama, this CBS series has kept safe distance from TV's echo chamber, immune to a discernible formula or gimmick. It manages to stay both mainstream and offbeat. A neat trick.

Airing its fifth-season finale Sunday at 10 p.m. EDT on Global, The Good Wife has replenished the stripped-bare legal-drama genre with complex story lines that employ human relationships as much as courtroom brinksmanship.

It is often funny, yet never less than gripping as it forgoes (with the rarest exceptions) screeching tires, fisticuffs and gunplay.

Oh, sure, lawyer Will Gardner was gunned down in a March episode that narratively served the wishes of Josh Charles, who played him, to depart. But this weariest of legal-drama tropes (a courthouse shooting!) rocked the audience as much as it did Will's associates. No wonder: It was so unexpected for The Good Wife to shed blood.

Despite fans' sorrow at losing Will, The Good Wife remains bursting with great characters played by a stellar troupe including Christine Baranski, Archie Panjabi, Matt Czuchy and Alan Cumming, aided by a bounty of guest stars that currently includes Michael J. Fox in a delicious story arc.

They are led by Julianna Margulies, who plays the titular protagonist, Alicia Florrick — a stay-at-home mother and former Chicago attorney forced to go back to work at the start of the series after a sex-and-corruption scandal sent her Cook County State's Attorney husband (Chris Noth) to jail.

Back in September 2009, this seemed a juicy premise. But marital betrayal with a good-wife-as-victim was only the stepping-off point.

"We knew that Alicia should confront that initial crisis, but then grow and change," says Michelle King, who, with her husband, Robert King, created the series. "We wanted to follow that trajectory and see her strengths develop, not just live in a world of infidelity and its aftermath."

The untimely death of Will, Alicia's former colleague and heartthrob, has given the show a creative jolt, a stirring overlay to its tangled litigation and office intrigue. But life goes on.

"On the show, we try to imitate as much as possible the life most of us are familiar with," says Robert King. "In your office every day, you're not dealing with dragon slayers, you're dealing with people metaphorically stabbing you in the back."

As a show that relies on words and ideas over flash and dash, The Good Wife more closely resembles certain boutique cable series such as Mad Men than the slate of procedurals CBS dines out on. But the Kings say the network has supported them in their resistance to a copycat approach.

"CBS has given us so much rope," says Robert King, "it's amazing we haven't hung ourselves three or four times over."

Michelle and Robert King make what they do sound challenging and yet, somehow, second nature. But isn't it an act of Herculean restraint not to throw in a car chase, axe murder or rotting corpse just to keep pace with so many other shows? "It doesn't even cross our minds," said Michelle King who, like her husband, is L.A.-based. "It would be like living in California and buying snowshoes to get someplace."

Chromeo ready to raise eyebrows

White Women.

Montreal duo, who blend disco, rock and funk with humour, say album title is meant to be provocative

Sitting a few feet in front of Toronto's Danforth Music Hall stage — which features a keyboard perched atop plastic high-heeled female legs — Chromeo's Dave Macklovitch steers a conversation about the Montreal duo's new album into a discussion about the persistent female imagery in their music.

It's natural, really, given that the title of their just-released album is White Women. Although that references a 1976 book by late German fashion photographer Helmut Newton, Chromeo gravitated toward the name for its potential to provoke.

Macklovitch said he had to sell that title to partner Patrick Gemayel. They were both “very hesitant,” but ultimately decided that it had the iconic flair of an old Roxy Music, David Bowie or Van Halen record.

What's with the high-heeled keyboard?

“I feel like people who view our visual language as objectifying are taking it too literally — because what we reference is not the concept of women, it's an era and an atmosphere.”

Chromeo's Dave Macklovitch

Though they intended to raise eyebrows, Macklovitch is eager to confront the notion that the Juno-nominated outfit — which blends disco, yacht rock and funk with goofy-hearted humour — is sexist to any degree.

“I feel like people who view our visual language as objectifying are taking it too literally — because what we reference is not the concept of women, it's an era and an atmosphere,” he said during a recent interview.

“Our iconography ... doesn't refer to actual female legs to say that the legs are pretty when they're skinny and you should chop them off and put a keyboard on top, because that would be really offensive even to us. It refers to a whole atmosphere: late '70s, early '80s, erotic, kind of soft rock.”

The title, Macklovitch says, works on multiple levels. “It's highbrow and lowbrow,” he added.

It's the sort of contradictory balance Chromeo has always tried to strike. Similarly, the duo is simultaneously retro and modern, slick and gawky, arrogant and neurotic, goofy and yet determined to build a catalogue that stands up to those of their musical heroes.

That ambition is especially obvious on White Women, an album they worried over for two years, packed with guest stars (including Solange, Toro Y Moi and Vampire Weekend's Ezra Koenig) and sleek mini-epics that discard the careful brevity of previous records.

“We had a lot to prove,” said Macklovitch, seated next to Gemayel. “Everything's harder on album No. 4. But for a lot of bands, sometimes that's when the accomplished version of the band appears.”

Their comedic lyrics again offer an arch look at relationships, and again Macklovitch balances smug shtick with funny admissions of self-doubt. Insecurity is a persistent lyrical theme, on groovy single Jealous (I Ain't With It), Over Your Shoulder and Sexy Socialite.

“There's gotta be juxtaposition,” Macklovitch said. “Because a song like Over Your Shoulder, for instance, when you hear the music, it's normally very Playboy, Barry White stuff. So we decided to make it a feminist anthem.”

“I'm sure tons of singer/songwriters have touched that Chromeo band members Dave Macklovitch, left, and Patrick Gemayel in Toronto on May 2. The Montreal duo named their new album White Women and knew it would be provocative, so they're eager to explain the thought process behind the title. NATHAN DENETTE/THE CANADIAN PRESS subject but never on our type of music,” Gemayel piped in. “Two guys that look like us and sound like us.”

“We started out on Needy Girl — we had a dance track about someone being annoying,” Macklovitch added, referencing their breakthrough 2004 single. “That was always our blueprint.”

When the pair emerged a decade ago, many critics figured their obsession with then-unfashionable influences — blue-eyed soul and disco, performing on sleazy synths and talkboxes — was intended as winking irony.

Those attitudes have gradually evolved, to the point where Daft Punk's disco-indebted throwback Random Access Memories was serenaded as album of the year at January's Grammy Awards.

Students of musical history that they are — and indeed, during a 20-minute interview the pair variously digresses into dissections of ZZ Top, Kanye West, Led Zeppelin, the Red Hot Chili Peppers and Death Grips — the members of Chromeo look at the critical rehabilitation of artists like Hall & Oates and see something resembling a legacy.

Bones stars David Boreanaz and Emily Deschanel. CONTRIBUTED

Season-ender to spark big change in Bones' chemistry

Boreanaz directs. Finale promises to upend everything in the lives of Booth and Brennan

LISA WEIDENFELD
Metro World News

It's safe to say that after nine seasons, Emily Deschanel and David Boreanaz have settled into a pretty solid working relationship for Global's Bones. That might be because, as Boreanaz says, "We have complete trust and respect for each other," calling himself "blessed" to have a co-star "who is so generous and supportive." Deschanel says she loves being directed by Boreanaz, who took the helm for the season finale.

"I think David is just really talented as a director, as well as an actor. He has a whole other career, if he wants it, when this thing's over," Deschanel says. "He's great technically, he's good with the actors, he's decisive, he knows what he wants, he knows what he doesn't want."

The Boreanaz-directed finale airs on May 19, and Deschanel promises, "There's a huge thing that happens at the end of this episode ... that changes everything. For a while, with not only Booth and Brennan, between them, but also between everything, Booth's job, possibly Brennan's job — I mean, everything." Expect some changes in the dynamics on the team, but Boreanaz assures us that, "Things will change for the good."

This week's episode introduced a new intern, played by Laura Spencer (The Lizzie Bennet Diaries), who viewers saw clashing a little bit with Bones' practical style. "(Bones) does not care for the way she guesses about things and makes assumptions," says Deschanel.

Season finale

The season finale of Bones airs May 19 on Global.

The new intern is "kind of an intuitive person," which is not the sort of decision-making that Bones generally approves of, but her hunches have a habit of turning out to be right. She may also see some sparks fly with Sweets.

For now, don't expect either star to take a journey behind the camera in the direction of the writers' room. "I'm pretty good with ideas, but I'd have to really work on that one because I think Emily can attest that my vocabulary's a little limited," Boreanaz laughs. "I get my words out, but sometimes they don't make sense."

"I always understand what you mean, though, David," reassures Deschanel. "As for me, I live with a television writer. I know how hard it is. You have to make up a whole story out of thin air, not to mention all the technical stuff. I would be much more inclined to direct before I would try to write an episode."

Switching up the duo's dynamic

"There's a huge thing that happens at the end of this episode."

Elevator attack

Hotel fires person who recorded Solange video

A New York City hotel where someone recorded security video appearing to show Beyoncé's sister, Solange Knowles, attacking Jay Z inside an elevator said Wednesday it had identified and fired the person.

The Standard Hotel said the person had been terminated for "breaching the security policies of the hotel and recording the confidential CCTV video."

Celebrity website TMZ posted the three-minute video on Monday and said it was shot last week inside a Standard Hotel elevator.

The video appears to show Solange attacking Jay Z in Beyoncé's presence. A security guard intervenes. The footage shows the performers in the outfits they wore to the Met Gala last week. There is no audio.

CHRIS YOUNG/THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's no Little Secret how Quincy Jones feels about Nikki Collaboration.

Legendary producer says Montreal's Nikki Yanofsky blew him away with live performance

Music impresario Quincy Jones recalls being in his living room wearing a bathrobe and drinking a blueberry smoothie when he heard prodigious Montreal vocalist Nikki Yanofsky sing live for the first time.

It was about six years ago and Jones — producer of Michael Jackson's chart-smashing albums Off the Wall, Thriller and Bad — had connected with Yanofsky through a mutual friend after learning she was performing tunes by the likes of Ella Fitzgerald and Count Basie using his arrangements.

"It blew me away," the 27-time Grammy Award winner said in an interview in a Toronto hotel room.

"You know it right away if it is there and if it's not there. The first four bars, you know what's up."

Jones said he also knew immediately that he wanted to work with the internationally

She's got it

Quincy Jones, on hearing Nikki Yanofsky for the first time acclaimed jazz-pop singer with the jaw-dropping vocal range and sensational scatting abilities.

And he did, first at a jazz festival in Europe, and now on her newly released album, Little Secret.

Jones executive produced the 12-track studio release, and it has his master touch all over it — from the slick arrangements to samples of his 1962 hit Soul Bossa Nova and even snippets of his speaking voice.

Fusing jazz and pop, the album is a vintage funk-soul offering with horn beats and a feel reminiscent of the works of Amy Winehouse and Sharon Jones & the Dap-Kings.

At 20, Yanofsky naturally comes across on the album — and in person — as more mature than when she first gained attention as a brace-faced teen muscling her way through classics including Fitzgerald's Air-mail Special.

The Juno-nominated prodigy said she wanted to "bridge jazz with popular culture in a new way that hadn't really been done in a while. I just wanted to find a new way to bring it to my generation."

Yanofsky — who is also well known for singing I Believe, CTV's broadcast theme for the 2010 Winter Olympics — said she focused on melody first and lyrics second. It's advice she got from Jones during the recording process, which took place over two years in Montreal and California.

Jones said he plans to collaborate with Yanofsky again, and the two are due to tour in Europe together this summer.

"I just love being with this guy," she said, squeezing his arm.

Jones said Yanofsky is "not going to stop here, she's going to keep evolving, and that's important. Very important. You don't want to get stuck on one thing, you know. No, that's not her trip." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Liam Cunningham is

Sinister storylines.

The Onion Knight doesn't know what to think about this season of Game of Thrones — and he likes it that way

The third episode of this pitch-black season of Game of Thrones featured one horrific scene that ignited much heated discussion — even in the home of star Liam Cunningham.

Spoiler-phobic sorts behind on their DVR homework had better not proceed. In the controversial scene in question, Jaime Lannister sexually assaults his twin sister, Cersei, over the altar containing the body of their dead son.

Cunningham, who plays the noble Ser Davos Seaworth on the fiercely loved HBO Canada series, watched the episode with his wife and daughter — whom he describes as a “hardcore feminist,” before adding in grinning jest: “she’s a pain in the ass sometimes.”

An intra-familial discussion of the divisive rape scene — which was a consensual encounter in George R.R. Martin’s source novel — ensued and stretched for 30 minutes.

Cunningham points out that the action was so heinous in part because the once-dastardly Jaime had been in the midst of a two-season redemption arc. Further, he notes some “moral ambiguity” given the twins’ bizarre incestuous relationship.

Mostly, he doesn’t seem sure what to think — and he says that’s sort of the point.

“I kind of think about it in terms of doing a painting — you don’t always need a painter there to tell you what your interpretation of it is,” said the friendly Irish actor during a visit to Toronto this week.

“It’s a grown-up show for grown-ups, made by grown-ups; it doesn’t necessarily expect you to take any sort of position on this ... It’s not up to me or anybody who made the show to tell anybody what to think about what they’ve seen.”

The he added, “I think it would be arrogant of us to say this is what it is supposed to be. It’s patronizing for anybody to do that. It’s there for what you want to take from it. And I think that’s intelligent and I think it’s as close as you can get to a piece of art for what it is.”

Cunningham, 52, was in

Controversy

“It’s a grown-up show for grown-ups, made by grown-ups; it doesn’t necessarily expect you to take any sort of position on this. ... It’s not up to me or anybody who made the show to tell anybody what to think about what they’ve seen.”

Liam Cunningham, who plays Davos Seaworth on the controversial rape scene in season 4

Toronto for the opening of Game of Thrones: The Exhibition, running through Sunday at the TIFF Bell Lightbox.

The internationally touring exhibition features 100 original artifacts, costumes, weaponry, storyboards and other ephemera from the consistently shocking fantasy series. The hyper-intricate props, elegantly displayed, are a convincing testament to the show’s meticulous attention to detail.

“It’s the real stuff, you know?” Cunningham said. “It’s not some kind of cheap-ass replica they’re throwing in.”

An accomplished character actor with an exhaustive resumé of film credits, Cunningham is no stranger to large-scale productions.

He was featured in the swords-and-sandals-and-CGI extravaganza Clash of the Titans, the costly 2008 saga The Mummy: Tomb of the Dragon Emperor and more recently the starry thriller Safe House. But Cunningham says the famously ambitious Thrones is in a league of its own.

“Each one you do is a different set of pain-in-the-ass problems that you have to try and get over and different levels of enjoyment,” he said.

“But doing Game of Thrones, it’s a peculiar beast. You need to do your work. You need to do proper acting. You’re not looking over your shoulder dodging bullets or whatever it may be,” he added.

“It’s so different and it’s not a movie. It’s not following one guy who meets the girl, gets in trouble, kills the bad guy, saves the girl and marries her in the end. It’s not dopey.”

Cunningham has resisted the urge to read Martin’s books, in which Ser Davos arguably plays a larger role than he does in the show — “I don’t know what’s coming and I don’t want to know what’s coming,” he says — but he’s savoured watching his character’s tale unfold.

A reformed smuggler who had four fingertips lopped off in penitence, Davos acts as the moral compass for throne hopeful Stannis Baratheon. Cunningham calls his character a “simple man in a nest of vipers,” comparing him to Robert Duvall’s mild-mannered Corleone consigliere in The Godfather.

Cunningham’s even shared several tender moments with Kerry Ingram’s scarred young princess Shireen Baratheon, who teaches the older man how to read.

“You know there’s that old cliché, don’t work with children or animals?” he said. “I’ve done loads of stuff with kids. Kids, their whole reason for living is to play. Actors, when you grow up, you have to re-learn (that).” THE CANADIAN PRESS

at home in the dark

Liam Cunningham plays Ser Davos Seaworth on HBO's hit fantasy series Game of Thrones. CONTRIBUTED

Around the world in one season

The show's fourth season has shot in Northern Ireland, Croatia and Iceland, and Liam Cunningham's plot line has been isolated to the point where he's never shared a scene with many of the show's stars. So, does it still feel like they're all on the same show?

- "It feels like we're all in the same phenomenon," Cunningham replied with a laugh. "That's what the weird thing about it is. We pass each other in hotels, or somebody's finished for the day and you're going to be working tomorrow so you have a couple of beers in the bar with them. (But) Emilia (Clarke) shoots everything in Croatia, in Morocco —

we're not even, in a sense, on the same continent. It's kind of really weird. And because everybody's a link in this chain, in this big cast, what's kind of cool about it is when you do get to see it we're watching it like fans." "We've only shot our bit," he added, "so I'm as eager as anyone else to see what the results are."

3 songs for the weekend

Sound Check

ALAN CROSS

Disremember / Dismemberment / Doomsquad

Pulsing, haunting electronica from the three Blumas siblings, Allie, Jacklyn and Trevor. DNA of Massive Attack and the XX was used in the making of their debut record, Kalaboogie.

Play Dumb / The Crookes

Four-piece from Sheffield whose members found each other while dancing alone at an indie dance club. Tingles of Arctic Monkeys can be heard throughout. Endorsed by Noel Gallagher.

Get Your Sexy On / Lovestarrs

A debut single with an awesome hook from the U.K. band formerly known as The Good Natured. If you're into Fleetwood Mac or Haim, you'll find much to like here.

Some dark and dreamy beats followed by two hook-laden tunes to start the party

Video game review

Name. Mario Golf World Tour

For. Nintendo 3DS

Rated. Everyone

If you love golf simulations that let you calculate trajectories and finesse each shot, you'll be pleased with the complexity of Mario Golf even in its playful underwater courses, greens made of yarn, and rocket-powered balls. There are plenty of fun modes and goofy prizes for casual players, while serious golfers disappointed by the shortness of the campaign will be pleased with the superb way you can create online tournaments. I only wish you could play with a friend by simply passing the system back and forth. Otherwise, it's a rewarding solo sport.

After six seasons and three Emmy wins playing mob wife Carmela on HBO's The Sopranos, Edie Falco found her second wind of small-screen success with Showtime's Nurse Jackie. CHRIS PIZZELLO/INVISION

Playing an addict helps Falco steer clear of temptation

Nurse Jackie. Star and recovering alcoholic Edie says role 'reminds me, thank God, I'm not there. I'm not going through this.'

For Edie Falco, the stigma surrounding older actresses is nothing more than Hollywood folklore. In fact, the 50-year-old says life has never been sweeter.

"It continues to get better and more rewarding and fuller and more confident and all these things that I kind of never realized how much I had longed for until I had them," Falco said in a recent interview. "I feel like it's an ideal time to, I don't know, to be me."

After six seasons of playing mob wife Carmela on HBO's The Sopranos, Falco now plays Jackie Peyton, an ER nurse addicted to prescription drugs, on Showtime's Nurse Jackie. Season six finds Jackie in the throes of relapse.

"I was as heartbroken as everybody else that she took that pill at the end of the (last) season," she said. "I'm also grateful that we're portraying it (addiction) the way it really is, which is irrational and so often disappointing."

Falco, a recovering alcoholic with 20 years of sobriety, said portraying Jackie's downward spiral has been helpful to her recovery.

"If it's anything, it's therapeutic," she said. "Rather than making me want to (relapse) it makes me even more solidly planted. ... And also just reminds me, thank God, I'm not there. I'm not going through this. I'm not waking up the morning after anymore."

Falco, who has won four Emmys and two Golden Globes, said her main focus is on her children, Anderson, nine, and Macy, six.

And she said that with age and motherhood comes a sense of confidence that was missing during the heyday of The Sopranos.

"What I'm sure is that if I don't work forever, I'll be fine either way," she said. "I've kind of my whole life hoped to one day feel the way I do right now, which is that everything is going to be fine." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Faint rise up from the dance floor

Dead disco. Back with a new album, Doom Abuse, the Faint find themselves drawn to a more rock and roll sound

PAT HEALY
Metro World News in Boston

When the members of The Faint entered the studio again for the first time in almost seven years, they had no plan whatsoever for what they were going to record. The results were different from anything they had ever written before.

"It was kind of a surprising choice even from our perspective," says singer Todd Fink of the rock energy that pulsates through Doom Abuse.

The Faint were instrumental in progressing youth culture from the cynicism of grunge in the mid '90s to the exuberance of dance rock in the late '90s, so it wouldn't be obvious that a reunion effort would be so aggressive.

"The energy that was behind us getting back together was a more cathartic and chaotic expression," says Fink.

"Something that we could get up onstage and play as a band and really be a band, not just playing over some tracks, which is probably what we'll do next. But we had to get this out of our system."

Though the members of the band remained in touch during their hiatus (Fink's brother Clark plays drums), they never actually addressed the hiatus.

"We didn't really think about it or talk about it, whether we were going to get back together or if anyone was interested," says Fink. "There was no big announcement. We just didn't meet anymore. And then we left town."

The town in question is Omaha, Neb. and Fink says one of the reasons they split up and skipped town had to do with the economy.

"The real estate crash had something to do with it, because (my wife and I) were in a house that I loved. It was a power station that had been converted to this big room house," he says. "We saw on the news that economy was going to s— and real estate was in big trouble and it wasn't going to get better, so we thought, 'Let's pack our s— and put our house on the market' and we were out in California in just a couple weeks."

Before entering the studio again, the band reconvened to tour and play their seminal 2001 album, Danse Macabre, in its entirety, which makes it more surprising that what they came up with for Doom Abuse was so different from their definitive dance album.

"It seems like the world has too much dance music and pop music right now," says Fink. "I wanted to feel like we had done something different."

Emma Stone

Emma not crazy about Andrew's shyness

Emma Stone is quite happy with her boyfriend and The Amazing Spider-Man co-star, Andrew Garfield, but there's just one little problem. "Emma and Andrew are a serious couple, now deep into a three-year romance and even talking about having a family together," a source tells E! News. "But Andrew's increasing social awkwardness is a big issue for Emma. It's like life imitating art with Andrew as the nerdy Peter Parker type for real. Andrew is very focused on keeping Emma happy, but for this to become a marriage and a family, she needs him to branch out and come out of his shell a bit."

Metro World News

Oh, how cute — Lily Allen's brother Alfie plays Theon Greyjoy in Game of Thrones, and she almost played his sister! Wait. This is Game of Thrones. That would have been horrible and borderline illegal.

In her Reddit AMA, the British pop star says she was offered the role of Yara Greyjoy, Theon's older sister. Fans will recall that when Yara was introduced in the second season, Theon — who hadn't seen his sister since childhood — tried to get to third base with her on the back of a horse. Allen wisely declined to play the scene with her real brother.

"I've been asked to do a Game of Thrones cameo," she wrote. "They asked me if I'd be interested in playing Theon's sister, and I felt uncomfortable because I would have had to go on a horse and he would have touched me up and s—. Once they told me what was entailed, I said no thanks. I would be open to doing a musical cameo like Sigur Rós, though."

Wise move, Lily Allen. And to the Game of Thrones team: Get a grip.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Beyoncé

Maybe he shoulda just put a ring on it? Beyoncé gets wedding tattoo removed

If the tattoo on Beyoncé's ring finger is any indication, her marriage to Jay Z may be in trouble, as the singer has reportedly been undergoing treatments to have it removed, according to Star magazine.

Beyoncé got the tattoo of the Roman numeral IV to signify her relationship with the rap mogul, but recent photos show it looking progressively more faded. "Jay's been telling his friends that Beyoncé is getting her ring tattoo removed, the one they got when they were married. He just sort of shrugs it off, though, saying, 'Nothing is forever,'" a source says. "To the public, Beyoncé and Jay Z appear to have it all. But behind closed doors, they're not as happy as people think they are."

Guess what Frank Sinatra, Keith Richards and every '80s hard rock band worth their weight in hair spray have in common? Just two words: Jack Daniel's.

Born in Lynchburg, Tenn., the world's most popular American whisky has been filling the glasses of musicians and the Hollywood elite (not to mention those of us who work for a living) for decades.

I didn't know The Chairman of the Board was a fan until the recent release of Jack Daniel's Sinatra Select Tennessee Whiskey (1 L, $265.14 - $299.99).

It turns out Frank was buried with a bottle of the original black label. Jackie Gleason, a drinking buddy, introduced him to Jack's southern charms sometime in the '40s and he became an instant convert of what he liked to call "the nectar of the gods."

Old school Jack showed more oak and spice, so the barrels that age the Sinatra Select have extra layers of char to draw out those robust characteristics. Big, bold, boozy and sweet, it's a fitting liquid tribute to Old Blue Eyes.

1. Mix scotch whisky or water with sugar and salt. Rub over the flesh side of the fish and leave to stand for 10 minutes before smoking (or up to 2 hours in the fridge, flesh side down in the whisky mixture).

2. Line a wok or roasting dish with enough foil to reach 3-4 cm above the rim, flattening the foil firmly on the base and sides. Sprinkle the tea leaves or sawdust and sugar in the base. Position an oiled rack above the tea leaves and place the fish skin side down on the rack. Make sure there is enough room above the fish for the air to circulate and smoke the fish thoroughly.

3. Cover the wok or roasting dish tightly with a lid and fold the overhanging foil in and around the edge of the lid to seal. Place wok or roasting dish on the stove top over a high heat for 4-6 minutes (by this stage the mixture should be smoking vigorously), then reduce to a low heat and cook for a further 12 minutes. Turn off the heat but keep the lid closed for another 15 minutes so the fish absorbs the smoky flavours while it cools.

4. Before serving, remove the pin bones from the cooked fish with a clean pair of tweezers or small pliers. Grasp one bone at a time and pull out in the direction the bone is lying.

5. Transfer fish to a serving platter and serve crusty bread.

Thriller

Roughly 30 years ago, Michael Jackson's Thriller album was released and it was an instant chart-topping success. Even decades later, Thriller and MJ still hold a special place in the heart of pop culture and on May 16th and 17th the Calgary Philharmonic Orchestra brings to life the timeless hits from the King of Pop. Songs like ABC, Rock With You, Billie Jean and Beat It will have you grooving all night long at the Jack Singer Concert Hall. Shows begin at 8 p.m. To purchase tickets visit: cpo-live.com

La Chambre

TRUCK Contemporary Art Gallery is hosting an opening reception on Friday, May 16th and everyone is invited out to this free event. Jacinthe Lessard-L will be displaying her work, La Chambre, which is essentially a series of cameras that have been made into moulds before being photographed again. TRUCK is open Tuesday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturdays from noon until 5 p.m. The main gallery space is located at 2009 10th Ave. SW. truck.ca

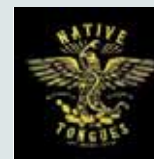

Last chance to ski and ride

It's always so hard to go skiing when we're on the verge of summer but Slush Cup is an awesome excuse to hit the slopes one last time. On May 19th, Sunshine Mountain will be hosting the annual Slush Cup and you are encouraged to wear your most ridiculous outfit to the party where you'll have the opportunity to try to clear the slush pond on your skis. Don't feel bad if you're not that talented on a set of skis — there's even a prize for the best belly flop. skibanff.com

Keep it classy, Calgary

Do you have a dapper sense of style and enjoy biking? If so, you should join the Annual Victoria Day Tweed Ride happening this May long weekend. All cyclists will be meeting up at the Sunalta Community Centre (1627 10th Ave. SW) and then wrapping up with a party at the Oak Tree Tavern in Kensington (124 10th Ave. NW) where you'll have a chance to win lots of great prizes. The ride happens on May 19th and registration begins at 2 p.m. tweedrideyy.com

Lucic, the sore loser handshaker

The Boston Bruins end the season as losers. Rubbing salt in the wound, Bruins winger Milan Lucic has been labelled a sore loser in some quarters.

When the best-of-seven series ended in a 3-1 victory for Montreal in Wednesday's Game 7 at the TD Garden, Lucic had words with several Canadiens during the traditional post-series handshake on the ice.

Crosby: 'We feel responsible'

Sidney Crosby understands the price of disappointment.

And while others — namely Pittsburgh Penguins coach Dan Bylsma — will likely face the consequences following another early playoff exit, the NHL's brightest star isn't shirking his share of the blame.

"At the end of the day we feel responsible," Crosby said Thursday.

Sabres' Konopka gets 20 games

Underdog Habs bask in fans' love

Big Bad Bruins not wolves. 'Attitude is not negotiable,' says Canadiens coach Michel Therrien

It started with a torrent of hate. But P.K. Subban was feeling the love after the Canadiens disposed of the Boston Bruins.

The charismatic Montreal defenceman, the target of racial abuse after his winning goal in Game 1 of their second-round playoff series, planted a kiss on broadcaster Pierre McGuire to wrap up their post-Game 7 interview Wednesday night.

"Yeah baby," said a jubilant Subban after McGuire congratulated him for reaching the Eastern Conference final, which starts Saturday in Montreal against the New York Rangers.

More than a few hockey fans may have fallen for the underdog Habs after their performance against the big bad Bruins.

The Canadiens are hard-working, proud and tenacious.

"It's definitely a special team and if we didn't know it before the playoffs, we definitely know it now," said forward Max Pacioretty, who bounced back from a slow start in the series.

"I said when I got here, I just feel like this is a special team," echoed forward Dale Weise, acquired from the Canucks on Feb. 3. "I was on Vancouver the year after they went to the Cup final, we won the Presidents'

In New York

The Rangers are still dealing with the unexpected death of forward Martin St. Louis' mother before Game 5 against Pittsburgh. St. Louis briefly returned home to Montreal, but rejoined his teammates. He then scored a goal on Mother's Day in the Rangers' Game 6 win.

Funeral plans had been made for Saturday, and the Rangers were unable to change the starting of Game 1 that day because of television commitments for NBC.

Trophy — there's something about this team that's just special.

"We're real resilient. When our backs are against the wall (and) we need a big performance, our big players show up. And we've got so much depth.

I really like our team."

The Canadiens' work ethic was eloquently voiced by coach Michel Therrien prior to Game 2, in words most saw as a prod at Thomas Vanek and other underachieving forwards.

"One thing that's not negotiable with our team ... work ethic is not negotiable, attitude is not negotiable and competing is not negotiable," he said. "This is something we ask from every player on our hockey team. We have to make sure that everyone brings those elements to every single shift and every single game."

Therrien was rightly proud Wednesday.

"We just beat the best team in the league. We were down 3-2 (in the series) and we showed a lot of character, a lot of passion. To be able to win the series here in Boston, it's a tough place for teams to come and play here. I'm really proud about the performance of our players." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Memorial Cup. Quebec champions step back into cauldron in London

The Val-d'Or Foreurs are riding a wave of adrenaline into the Memorial Cup.

Less than 48 hours after winning the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League championship in Baie-Comeau, Que., the Foreurs were on the ice Thursday in London preparing for the cup opener against the host Knights.

"For sure we've been on a high for two days," Foreurs forward Anthony Mantha said. "We need to manage our emotions. The tournament is starting tomorrow. We need to be ready."

Friday's game pits the least-rested team against a club that will play its first real game in more than a month.

The Foreurs went the full

Red light district

Led by Anthony Mantha, a first-round draft pick of the Detroit Red Wings, the Foreurs were the only team in the QMJHL to crack the 300-goal mark during the regular season.

seven games to win both their QMJHL semifinal and final series. Mantha, a 57-goal man in the regular season, scored the winner with less than a minute remaining Tuesday against the Drakkar.

"For sure in the first period or two being game-sharp is an advantage," Mantha said. "Maybe later in the game it's going to become their advantage."

"For us, it's (important) to start strong. Once you have the lead, it's a little bit easier playing with the lead than being back one or two goals."

London's starting goaltender Anthony Stolarz will play his first game since March 25 because of a suspension.

"I think there's going to be a lot of traffic in front of the net," Mantha said. "He's maybe not going to be sharp. I don't know. I've never seen him play. For us, it's going to be shoot the puck and go for rebounds."

The Foreurs arrived at the Val-d'Or airport early Wednesday morning from Baie-Comeau and were on a charter to London that afternoon.

Head coach Mario Du-rocher's ideal scenario is a win against the host team Friday followed by two days of catching up on rest before their next game Monday against Guelph.

"The first win is going to be the toughest one," he said. "The quicker you get it, the better it's going to be. You get one, you at least have a chance for a tiebreak-er, so the first game will be important.

"We have two days of rest after that. Those two days off will be important I think to get that energy back for the rest of the tournament."

Encarnacion blasts sink Cleveland

Edwin Encarnacion hit two home runs and left-hander J.A. Happ pitched six innings as the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the Cleveland Indians 4-2 on Thursday.

Encarnacion, who has eight homers on the season, also had a double and drove in three runs for the game.

Juan Francisco added his seventh homer of the season for the Blue Jays (21-21), who took the rubber match of the three-game series with the Indians (19-22) to complete a 5-4 home stand.

David Murphy, who had five hits and five RBIs in Cleveland's 15-4 win on Wednesday, hit his third homer of the season in the fifth inning.

Happ (2-1) allowed six hits, two walks and one run as Cleveland dropped to 4-10 when facing a left-handed starter, 0-8 on the road. It was Happ's third start of the year after being on the disabled list and pitching from the bullpen on his return.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Someone you think you can trust may try to trick you, so be on guard. It's usually when you feel most relaxed that you are most likely to be cheated, so make sure you know what's going on around you.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Before you begin a new task, ask yourself this one simple question: Is it really necessary? Most likely it is one of those jobs that can safely be put off to another day, week or month.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Your confidence is high and it will get even higher when the Sun enters your sign on the 21st. Before then make sure you have tied up all loose ends and your plans are solid.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Mind planet Mercury in the most introspective area of your chart means you are more concerned with what's going on in your head than what's taking place in the world. The more you think the better you'll do.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You may not be a team player by nature but cooperation has its benefits and what you do with others today will have a bigger effect than what you do on your own. Everyone wins.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

This is an important time for you, especially if you have big ambitions. Don't worry if you are still not decided what you should be aiming for in life because the next few days will make it easier to choose.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

At some point today you will realize that many things you have been worrying about are simply not worth the time or the effort. Once you understand that, you will find it easier to focus on what is important.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

If you need to win someone over to your way of thinking, it's time to bombard them with facts that prove your case. You will convince them more easily if there is something financial in it for them.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You need to make some kind of change to your routine and you need to make it immediately. Astrology is all about time and timing and the time to get started is now — while energy and motivation are high.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You've enjoyed an easy ride in recent weeks and you know that at some stage you will have to pay for it. That stage will most likely arrive when the Sun changes signs on the 21st.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may be confused about your goals but in a matter of days your mind will be clear and the way ahead will be nicely mapped out for you. Listen to, and follow, your heart.

Pisces

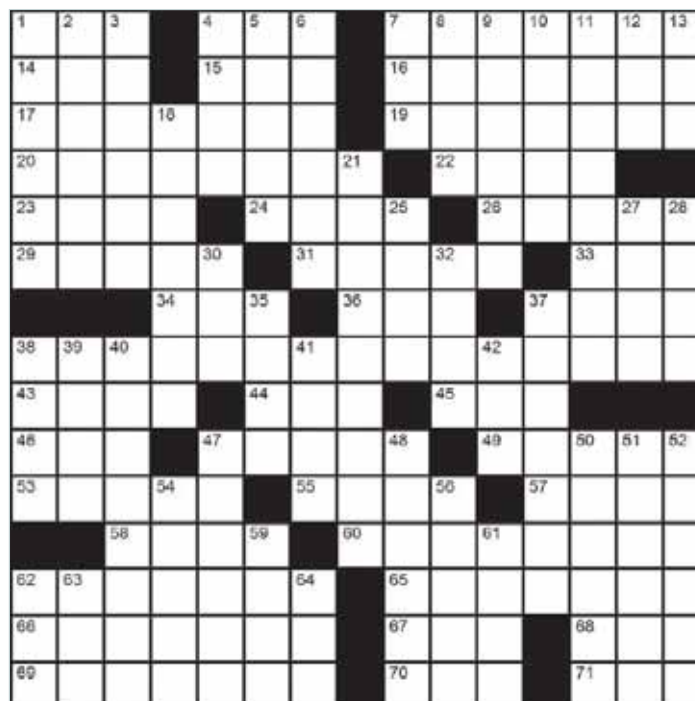

Feb. 20 - March 20

Let partners and loved ones know what you will and won't put up with. A reason there's been so many arguments of late is that some people have got the impression you can be easily manipulated. SALLY BROMPTON

MOUNTAINS WILL BE LEVELED

God is able to level every mountain before you. However, you have a part to play by taking steps of faith to carry out the Lord's instructions. Lazarus could have remained forever in the grave if his brethren had not obeyed when Jesus commanded, "Take away the stone." (John 11:39a NIV). Perhaps, there is a stone that needs to be taken away for your miracles to manifest, take the step of faith to take it away. Call the pastor at 403.992.8656 for prayers and counseling.
